

12th INTERNATIONAL SYMPOSIUM ON CHROMATOGRAPHY OF NATURAL PRODUCTS 10-13 MAY 2026, LUBLIN

INVITATION

Dear Colleagues,

On behalf of the Scientific and Organizing Committees, it is our great pleasure to invite you to join us at the 12th International Symposium on Chromatography of Natural Products (ISCNP 2026) that will be held in Lublin, Poland on May 10th-13th, 2026.

The International Symposium on Chromatography of Natural Products (ISCNP) is a meeting covering all aspects related to natural products research. Our meetings began in 1992, when we organized the first national symposium. After a few years we decided to expand our annual national meetings to biennial international conferences. Following the tradition of all of the previous meetings, the symposium aims to highlight recent advances in natural product research, with a focus on modern chromatographic and bioanalytical techniques. It will bring together scientists and industry professionals to discuss innovative approaches to drug discovery, quality evaluation, and the biological activity of natural products, as well as emerging trends in metabolomics, natural cosmetics, nutraceuticals, and dietary supplements.

The symposium will include invited plenary lectures, oral presentations, poster sessions, exhibitions, and social activities. Our main goal is to bring together scientists from universities, research centres, and industries from all over the world and offer to all a great and attractive symposium, joining different cultures and knowledge together in the lovely old city of Lublin.

We will be delighted to receive your contribution through scientific papers, exhibitions, and your participation in the discussions and social events at the symposium.

We sincerely hope that you will join us in making the 12th International Symposium on Chromatography of Natural Products a true success. We look forward to welcoming you to Lublin.

Yours Sincerely,

Prof. Dr. Krystyna Skalicka-Woźniak
